Artful le Withdrawn, in Spite of a Fast Track -H. P. Whitney's Burgomaster and Pegasus Bun First and Second in United States Hotel Stakes at the Spa.

SARATOGA, Aug. 19 .- Although the track was fast and a great crowd had gathered to see her run, H. P. Whitney's Artful was with-drawn from the cup event to-day, causing no end of disappointment. This left only three to go the route, one mile and three-quarters, John Sanford's Caughnawaga, August Belmont's Beldame and Sydney Zaget's Cairngorm. They carried weight at 6 to 5, with both of the others going up in the betting. Caughnawaga proved victorious after a magnificent race, thousands of his followers going wild with delight when he passed the judges in triumph.

When Starter Cassidy sent them away

Beldame was instantly taken to the front by O'Neill to set a fast pace. The famous mare had lots of speed and she led Cairongorm by a couple of lengths for a mile and a quarter. Then she began to show signs of weariness, and Cairngorm rushed up to her so quickly that he looked to be the winner an eighth of a mile from home. But meanwhile Redfern had been hugging the rail, with Caugh-nawaga under restraint, and in a Jiffy he out the old campaigner loose. With rapid strides Caughnawaga wore Beldame down, although the mare hung on gamely, when suddenly Cairngorm began to stop. Then Redfern went to a hard drive, and with only Beldame to beat, Mr. Sanford's noted horse went on to victory by a length and a half, while Beldame came home three lengths in front of Mr. Paget's colt. Caughnawaga ran the distance in 3:00 4-5, three seconds better than Beldame's time for this race last year, but 2 4-6 seconds behind Africander's record for the race and track when he defeated Waterboy in 1903.

H. P. Whitney's colors were much in evidence in the $10,000 United States Hotel Stakes, for two-year-olds, six furiongs, when Burgo-master and Pegasus ran first and second respectively. The pair ruled the choice at s to 5, with Ormondale, an added starter, second in favor at 7 to 2. Trainer Rogers declared to win with Burgomaster, who carried 127 pounds and gave weight to all of the others, but Pegasus was really the best, and could have won if he had been extended. As it was, Redfern took Burgomaster to the front without delay, and the Hamburg colt just breezed along to victory, with a length and a half over Pegasus, who was in hand all the way. Ormondale, who was off poorly, made a gallant bid in the stretch, but the best he could do was to take third money, lengths away. Bellsnicker tired in the stretch, while James R. Keene's Oyama, as was a disappointment. The time was 1:13 4-5, an excellent performance for the

1:3 4-5, an excelent performance for the winner.

Mr. Whitney's Futurity candidate, Timber, started in the sixth event, for two-year-olds, six furlongs, in which regular stake weight was carried. He went up in the betting to 4 to 1, and after making all the running to the last eighth pole he quit ignominiously. Willie Shield's Yalagal, a 40 to 1 shot, a much improved filly, bobbed up as the winner by a head, after being prominent at all stages. J. A. Bennet's Flip Flap, 13 to 5, who left the post last, closed with a rush and took the place from August Belmont's Bridgeman, the favorite, by three lengths. Running Water, 3 to 1, was always fourth. The time was 1:14.

water, 3 to 1, was always fourth. The time was 1:14.

Mr. Cotton's Jimmy Lane, 13 to 10 favorite, made a show of his rivals in the Beverwyck Steeplechase, and won in a common canter by twenty lengths. Malden, carrying the colors of J. W. Colt, and third in favor, was the runner-up from the outset and beat T. Hitchcock, Jr.'s Jim Newman, 3 to 2, by thirty lengths. The latter ran far below expectations. The latter ran far below expectations. The time was 5:31 3-5 for about two miles and a half.

Another 40 to 1 shot, M. L. Hayman's Brush Up, scored in the first race for three-year-olds, six furlongs. She clung to Sydney Paget's Water Mirror, 15 to 1, to the stretch and then ran over the latter in easy style, taking the race by a length and a half in 1:33 4-5. Humo, the favorite, was one of the victims of a poor start, but ran second, four lengths in front of Water Mirror, who beat Confessor a head. The latter was backed from 40 to 1 down to 15 to 1, but got off at a disadvantage. The start also killed the chances of Col. White and Lochinvar.

Knight of Rhodes, 11 to 5 favorite, was successful in the fifth race at a mile, but only by the narrowest of margins. He was best at the weights, but had to be hard driven by MoIntyre to beat King Rose, backed from 15 to 1 sovens, by a head. Irish Witch, a 50 to 1 shot, had early speed, but weakened in the run through the stretch and finished third, two lengths in front of The Lady Rohesia, another good thing. Four favorites won and Redfern rode two winners. The weather was perfect and 10,000 persons were won and Redfern rode two winners. weather was perfect and 10,000 persons were in attendance. Cox Wins Roque Championship for Third

Year. Norwicz, Conn., Aug. 19.—Charles C. Cox of Malden, Mass., holds the national roque championship for the third consecutive year. championship for the third consecutive year. He opened the last day of the tournament badly, being beaten by his clubmate, Drake, who got the balls after the champion had one ball a rover. Williams beat Whally handily, but to the surprise of everyhody lost to Bryant, one of the weaker players.

That left each with eight won and three lost. The tie was played off this afternoon, and Cox held the balls and ran the game out, allowing Williams but four arches. Strong retains the Van Wickle badge, beating Williams, the challenger, 3 out of 5.

NONPAREIL R. C. REGATTA. Close and Exciting Bacco-Titus Rows in

Losing Eight. The second half of the twenty-seventh annual regatta of the Nonpareil Rowing Club took place yesterday on the Speed-Club took place yesterday on the speed-way course, Harlem River, and the affair was favored with fine weather. For the earlier events the water was rough, but as the day wore on the breeze softened and the choppy eddies disappeared. The course was half a mile in length, from a point on the Speedway to the jetty at Sherman Creek, and all the races were rowed with a strong

In all cases the competition was close and exciting. A dead heat occurred in the intermediate double sig, and the row off will take place to-morrow night. The eight shell was a stirring race between three crews. Great doings were expected of the crew in which Titus rowed, but the quasi expert's combination was badly beaten. In the eight cared barge race the boats carried eight women as well as men; there was lots of fun, and the fair ones who braved the terrors of a ducking screamed when their summer dresses got saturated with the brine. They accused the men of splashing purposely, but the men said the accusation was groundless.

Chris Steinkamp, T. Lohr, C. F. Bode, F. C. Backus, H. Michaels, H. Kayser, J. Steuer, W. A. Heyse, J. Riffel, J. V. Kenefick.

There were two heats. The first was won by H. Michaels, with Chris Steinkamp second. W. A. Heyse won the second heat, with J. Steuer second. The final was a good race, Steinkamp was first to catch the water, but Michaels soon drew level with him, with Heyse and Steuer in the order named. After rowing a couple of, hundred yards Heyse spurted, taking the lead, and was never headed, winning by two lengths from Steinkamp. Steuer was third. Michaels caught a crab and nearly capsized. Crew No. 2 still led Crew No. 1 about a length, and thus they rowed to within about fifty yards of the finish, when Crew No. 1 steered into No. 2 crew's stern. Both boats stopped rowing, but Crew No. 2 was first to catch their stroke and won by half a length. Winners' time, 2 minutes 42 seconds. INTERMEDIATE DOUBLE GIG.

Owing to each boat carrying eight women, the start was slow, but after about a hundred yards Crew No. 1 forged ahead a little and led for a prief space. CLOSING DAY AT PARKWAY. Harry L. at Prehibitive Odds Wins Free

The closing program of the Parkway Driving Club's midsummer meeting drew over 5,000 persons to the plant yesterday afternoon and they witnessed some exciting sport. Harry L., at the prohibitive odds of 3 to 10, won the free for all in straight heats. In the final heat of this race there was a piece of sportsmanship that roused the crowd. Funston made a bad break on the first turn. Nerva Patchen had been withdrawn, and there was third money for Funston if he kept inside the distance flag. GREAT DEMONSTRATION OVER CAUGHNAWAGA'S VICTORY.

Gen. Sanford Overwhelmed With Con gratulations-620 Bot on Yalagal Nets 62,000 - Form Upsets Hasten De-parture of Betters From Saratoga.

SARATOGA, Aug. 19 .-- Artful's absence from the Saratoga Cup race this afterneon brought about a contest probably better than if she had run. In fact, it was the best race for this particular event since it was instituted. The cheers that greeted the well earned victory of the Sanford representative, Caughnawaga, showed how well pleased the crowd is when any horse from this stable wins. It was a tribute that came from winners and losers alike, and most pronounced in the matter of enthusiasm were the town folk of old Gen. Sanford, who as usual were out in soodly numbers, coming up from Amsterdam in a special train.

Their delight when Caughnawaga's num-

Their delight when Caughnawaga's number was displayed by the judges brought something new in the way of racetrack demonstrations. They rushed down from the grand stand in hundreds, shouting for the prowess of the home horse, and the old General went among the carpet weavers taking the congratulations with a reliab that was a pleasure to see. Each time this stable furnishes a victor, we get an exhibition of the carticular to go course. tion of the sentiment in racing. Of course the Amsterdamites let their loyalty include a financial investment, but it is to see the home colors in front that brings them here. The meeting has been a very successful one for them. On opening day the victory of Caughnawaga in the Saratoga handicap sent them on their way shouting the merite of the home bred horses. When Mohawi II. captured the Saratoga Special the following Saturday they were again on hand, and once more had a chance to sing the praises of the Mohawk Valley as a breeding place for thoroughbreds. Last Saturday, when Mo-hawk II. captured the Hopeful Stakes, they again carried away the coin of the layers. Now, with the cup added to their list of trophies, they are sure that there is just one place in the entire country to breed winners, and that is at the Sanford farm. Many clever judges are about willing to agree with them, for year after year we have the same tale to tell. The stable comes here direct from the farm and manages to carry. away the lion's share of the laurels.

As for Artful's failure to go to the post, explanations differ. There was some grumbling at the filly's name being sent out when it was known in her stable that she was not to be sent to the post, but this was done, if it was done intentionally, without the sanction of the management. Trainer Rogers very properly declined to make any statement, and the best explanation obtain-able is that the entry clerk simply sent her name through the entry box with the hope that she might be asked to fill the engagement. she might be asked to fill the engagement.

The United States Hotel Stakes, with a guaranteed value of $10,000, went to Burgomaster, from the stable of Harry Payne Whitney, with a stablemate, Pegasus, in the place. Burgomaster's showing was by far the best that he has made, for he carried a steadier of 127 pounds, and after making all the running, won with something to spare. The colt was sick since he was brought here, suffering from some blood disease that prevented his starting in the Hopeful Stakes last Saturday, but he is all right now, and it will take the very best of those in training to beat him. His next engagement is in the Flatbush Stakes at Sheepshead Bay, a trip of seven furlongs, where he will meet all the topnotchers. Some thought to-day that he was inclined to "dog it" half way down the stretch, and there is no question that at the point mentioned Redfern did wave his whip. He explained this, however, by saying that it was not that the colt was stopping, simply that he wanted to loaf and that he showed him the whip only to remind him of what was expected of him.

The fact that he initiated will not dispourage them all, for O'Neill rode him in a bungling manner. This race was won by Yalagal, a filly that was so little thought of that as good as 100 to 1 was laid against her chances. At this figure she had a handful of followers of the sort that are fond of shocking at the moon. W. J. Thorpe, a well known Brooklyn handicapper, was one of the few that were tempted by the odds. He bet $20 with Leo Mayer and after the race was paid $2,000.

of followers of the sort that are fond of shooting at the moon. W. J. Thorpe, a well known Brooklyn handicapper, was one of the few that were tempted by the odds. He bet $20 with Leo Mayer and after the race was paid $2,000.

R. A. Smith lost his filly Pegsy O'Neil after she had been beaten in the opening race. She was claimed by J. Grant Lyman, who was represented in the race by Raibert. It may be that this will turn out a good purchase, but it really looks another case of exalted value.

Mr. Belmont's offer to throw open the stables at Belmont Park for the use of the horsemen that could not find quarters in the vicinity of Sheepshead Bay, and to provide a train service every day to carry the horses to the races back and forth, is going to be taken advantage of by a number of trainers. Already the Asbury Stable and Edward Peters with his own lot and those he races for the Speedway Stable have asked for quarters, and by the latter part of heat west there will be quite a colony quartered at the new home of the Westchester Racing Association.

Brush Dy victory was a surprise to the form players and it should not have been, for this filly when she raced last on the big tracks was able to hold her arm with a pretty shifty lot of sprinters when in at light weight. Since the spring meeting at Bennings she has been at Baltimore, Buffalo, and Providence, and this probably explains the long price against her. It was surely a case of out of sight, out of mind.

There was a thinning out of the crowd to-night, and this will be the tale with the departure of all the trains for the remainder of the time set apart for the remainder of the time set apart for the principal hardon of sight, out of mind.

BLACKBURNANDLANGFORDDRAW Interesting Fifteen Round Bout Held in Chester, Pa.

Jack Blackburn of Philadelphia and Sam Langford of Boston, both colored, met in a fifteen round battle at the Leiperville A. C., Chester, Pa., on Friday night, The result was a draw. In the early rounds Langford was the aggressor. He did not accomplish much because of Blackburn's great cleverness. All of his leads and rushes were adroitly blocked.

In the tenth round Blackburn began to fight back. He landed often on Langford's body and had the latter guessing. Blackburn reached Langford's stomach with excellent effect in the eleventh, compelling his rival to hug. In the final rounds the battle was exceptionally fast. The last round was particularly hot. In the opinion of many had there been a verdict the only fair one would have been an even break.

JOE COTTON HAS CASHED IN. Passing of One of the Old Guard of Local

THE SULPHINE THE PLANT OF A COUNTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PA

"If every sport who has stood off Uncle Joe for a marker had attended the funeral the Cathedral would have been too small for the mob!" This was a frequent exclamation last night in the places that racing men frequent uptown. They spoke of Joe Cotton, an old time betting man, who died in this city last week and was buried on Thursday from an undertaker's establishment on Sirth avenue. In the last two or three years Uncle Joe did not make book, but he was a con-stant attendant at the races and there was always a group of cronies gathered about him to enjoy his stories and witticisms.

Joe Cotton was born in Nashville, Tenn. ever seventy years ago and he came North as a sporting man in the period when Reed and Spencer controlled the pool privileges at Saratoga and Kelly and Bliss the same privileges on the tracks about New York. He ran a poolroom in the city, with occasional intervals at Hoboken when the town was placed up for some years and was a was closed up, for some years and was a contemporary of the Johnson brothers, A. H. Cridge, William Lovell, Tully, Hackett and others well known as roomkeepers in the decade before bookmaking.

With the exception of Lovell, few of the old guard went on the block to make book, leaving that part of the work to younger or new men, but Cotton was in the game from start and often stood alone on his stand, his own cashier, ticket writer and all. He was charter member of the Metropolitan Turf Association, but afterward worked on the "dead line." To work alone was a notion he had picked up in England, where Cotton went about 1879 to study bookmaking. In his most prosperous years Cotton had Billy Carroll as city manager and cashier at the tracks. The two were of the same com-Carroll as city manager and cashler at the tracks. The two were of the same companionable disposition and had hosts of friends who would never place a bet in any other book. The firm had for a long while as runner a harum-scarum chap who was invaluable at ferreting out information that would be of use to the book, but who had also a genuine gift for going astray and losing his track badge and belongings. On the mornings after the tout would cling to the railings outside the track until he saw the bookmakers beginning to make ready for the day's business. Then he would begin a series of warhoops and catcalls, designed to attract Cotton's attontion and to gain his sympathy that would make the shrieks of a circus calliope seem a whisper. Finally Cotton would relent and would send Carroll over to get the handy man and put him to work. Meantime the other bookmakers would be enjoying the incident on the quiet.

Cotton had a thorough knowledge of the breeding and training of the thoroughbred, and his advice was often sought on such matters by owners and breeders, while as a betting man he had as many ups and downs as the walking beam of a steamboat. His intimates, Northand South, had nothing but high opinions of him living, and they are all mourning his death. No less than three racehorses have been named after him, although the height of fame is said to be reached when a single horse is named for an individual. The most noted Joe Cotton of the trio was by Checkmate and sold by him at Saratoga to the Dwyer Bros. as a four-year-old. This Joe Cotton won many races for the Dwyers in 1886 and 1887. Later there was a Joe Cotton during in Oregon, and a Joe Cotton II., by Tarleton—dam unknown, at New Orleans.

attendance. It was an off day for favorites. Peruns, in the 2:10 pace, was the only horse picked to win who diddwin. Because Swago in the 2:15 trot was not doing as well as the judges thought he could, McBride was taken from behind him after the first heat and Benyon was substituted. Swago did not do as well after the change as before.

The surprise of the day developed in the 2:10 trot, which was won by Jim Ferry, entered by W. J. Briggs of Denver and driven by Franks. The first heat was taken by The Roman, the second by Robert Mc.; then Jim Ferry took two heats and the race. Summaries: marres 2:10 class, pacing; purse $1,000;

Football at Caritale Indian School. The Carlisle Indians did pretty well on the ridiron last fall, and this fall they hope to do still better. It is expected that there will be more weight on this year's eleven, and adbe more weight on this year's eleven, and additional avoirdupols will be a help to the red men. They always are fast, but have not had the weight of most of their pale face rivals. Fremont and Tomahawk, ends: Bowen and Exendine, tackles; Dillon and White, guards; Schouchuk and Kennedy, centers; Libby, quarterback; Sheidon and Hendricks, halfbacks, and Lubo, fullback, will all be back this year, excepting possibly White. These men with new material will it is thought give a promising aquad with which to select an eleven. There will probably be three sets of backs from which to choose the men for behind the line for the more important games. A couple of new ends may be developed and a new center found. All told, the prospects are very good.

Home Team—Serrow Assuaged by Pittsburg's Defeat in Brooklyn—Philadelphias and Bostons Win Their Games.

The New York Nationals fell by the wayside yesterday in the third encounter of the series with the Chicagos, but the ensuing sorrow was assuaged by the downfall of the Pitteburgs in Brooklyn. Each game of the Brooklyn-Pittsburg series was won and lost by one run. The Philadelphias won from St. Louis and the Bostons from Cincinnati.

gist, at the head of the Chicago faculty yesterday, the New York; were considerably worsted in the diamond debate at the Polo Grounds. Resolved, that we win, being the subject of the disoussion, the Chicagos conducted the affirmative side with great briskness and forcible logic, punctuated by telling hitting and convincing fielding. Prof. Reulbach, with his speedy cross fire arguments, laid the New York batters low, his extremely meritorious service having them helpless. Thus did he get revenge for previous occasions when he failed to maintain his effectiveness as he did yesterday. A score of thousands saw the New Yorks put up a game which for all argund weakness was very unusual for them. The Champions were weak at the bat, ragged in their fielding, and slow witted in their base running.

The Cubs were sprightly and snappy in all these departments, and quite outshone the New Yorks.

The Cubs began elucidating Wiltse's slants in the third inning. Hofman hit a puzzling bounder to Devlin and was safe. Kling sacrificed. Bowerman dropped the third strike on Reulbach, retiring his man at first, but Hofman going to third. Slagle drew four balls and stole second. Dr. Casey rapped a hard single to left which scored Hofman. Mertes made a fine return to the plate, and Slagle would have been out there, had not Bowerman dropped the ball.

That baseball rara avis, a man thrown out at first on a driye to the outfield, was seen in the New York half of the third. Wiltse was the victim. He hit to right, and Maloney, who was playing in close, took the ball on the first bound and fired it to Chance shead of Wiltse. With one out in the fift, the right field blescherites set up a yelling, Luther Taylor starting them by wigagging to them with his hands behind his back. O Day set the mute down a moment later, but during the dim Bresnahan was unable to get back to first in time to prevent being doubled.

Article 8 of the discussion found the local envoys wholly unable to refute the pressing demands of the visitors for runs. Casey sing poon it. The ball did not roll much beyond the infield, but by the time anybody could get hold of it Tinker was on second and Casey and Chance had scored. Maloney kept up the bombardment with a hit through short, scoring Schulte and Tinker. The New Yorks made a run in the sixth on Hofman's fumble, Donlin's double and an out at first. The Chicagos made one in the eighth on Hofman's base on balls and steal and Kling's hit man's lumble, boshine ductor and call the first. The Chicagos made one in the eighth on Hofman's base on balls and steal and Kline's hit.

The Champs failed to realize on an opening in the eighth. A mistake in base running was the cause. Clarke singled and reached second, when Tinker dropped Hofman's assist on Wiltse's force. Strang walked, and every corner was inhabited. Donlin's grounder to Chance forced the base runners, and Clarke came home, but Wiltse, instead of going to third, ran back to second. Apparently he thought Donlin had flied to Chance. All Chance had to do after touching first and retiring Donlin was to throw over to Casey, and Wiltse was doubled up.

A batch of crude errors gave the Chicagos a run in the ninth. Mertes muffed Casey's fiy. The doctor was nipped stealing; then Chance walked. His steal brought forth a bad throw from Clarke on which he rushed to third, and on Devlin's failure to stop Donlin's return he cantered home. The score:

The Brooklyns took kindly to Hillebrand's pitching yesterday and beat the Pittsburgs in a close game. Batch's work on foul flies was a brilliant feature of the contest, which was well played. Batch batted in Brooklyn's first run with a three baser after Hall had walked. Clarke's triple and a wild pitch gave the Pittsburgs a run in the first inning. Dobbs's muff and Leach's hit gave them another in the third. In the eighth the dilligent Batch doubled to right, dessier fanned and Malay drew four balls. Bergen singled, scoring Batch and Malay and winning the game. The score:

Bench Show Ignores Specialty Clubs. An innovation in bench shows, the ignoring of all specialty clubs for prizes, has been made by the Taunton, Mass., Kennel Club, which holds its show there on Sept 4, 5 and 8, during the county fair. In other words, the
